

SECOND ART EXHIBIT OPENS NOVEMBER 10 AT AIRPORT

Works of Eleven Local Artists will be shown

For Immediate Release

November 1, 2012

HYANNIS – The second exhibit of works by Cape Cod artists will be on display starting November 10 at the Barnstable Municipal Airport terminal. Works by eleven local artists were selected for exhibition through May of next year.

The works were chosen by a seven-person arts jury from among 115 submissions made last spring in response to the airport commission's original request for proposals.

"Once again, the chosen works represent an extraordinary range of local talent," said Kevin Howard, executive director of the Arts Foundation of Cape Cod who has spearheaded the project along with Airport Commission Vice Chairman Donald Megathlin. Michael Giaquinto, exhibitions curator at the Cape Cod Museum of Art, is serving as collections manager.

"The airport will continue to serve as an artistic showcase for the thousands of airline passengers and visitors for the holiday season and beyond," Megathlin said. "The first exhibit was enthusiastically received."

Each exhibited work is insured against loss or damage by the Town of Barnstable. In addition, contact information will be displayed beside each work so interested buyers may follow up directly with the artist. One local artist's work was sold as the result of the first airport exhibit.

The artists whose work was chosen for the new exhibit include Jane Fay Baker of Woods Hole; Mark Chester of Falmouth; Carole Ann Danner of Hyannis; Kevin King of North Falmouth;

Coco Larrain and Kathleen Sidwell, both of Brewster; Jane Lincoln of East Falmouth,; Michael McGuire of Provincetown; Elizabeth Mumford of Hyannisport; Carroll Sivco of Harwich Port; and, Edith Tonelli of West Barnstable.

The jury included Howard, Megathlin and Giaquinto; Airport Manager Roland “Bud” Breault; local artist Suzanne Packer-McGarr; author and art critic Debbie Forman; and, Chatham architect John R. DaSilva.

A private reception for the artists will be held November 15 at the airport.
